Dear IRS : Why don’t you answer? An employer’s letter.

David Cay Johnston and The NY Times become an issue

On May 10, 2000, following information researched and published by NITE, Mr. Jesson (not by name but as owner of NTD Electronics) was visited by IRS officials at his home, who told the agents they’d have to identify themselves or leave. The IRS group left, rather than face the lawman who told them they’d have to identify themselves or leave. The IRS letters above states that these issues have never been addressed or adjudicated in any court.

But the letter above states that so-called previous determinations have never been addressed or adjudicated in any court.

By then the government was aware of the letters, of Johnston's activities, of his criminal tax problems. What happened was that the government knew of the letters, what Johnston had done, and yet still had done nothing. That was all.

The government knew of the letters, of Johnston's activities, Johnston's criminal tax problems, yet still had done nothing. That was all.

Later the letter above states that these issues have never been addressed or adjudicated in any court.

But the letter above states that these issues have never been addressed or adjudicated in any court.

By then the government was aware of the letters, of Johnston's activities, of his criminal tax problems. What happened was that the government knew of the letters, what Johnston had done, and yet still had done nothing. That was all.

Later the letter above states that these issues have never been addressed or adjudicated in any court.

But the letter above states that these issues have never been addressed or adjudicated in any court.

By then the government was aware of the letters, of Johnston's activities, of his criminal tax problems. What happened was that the government knew of the letters, what Johnston had done, and yet still had done nothing. That was all.

Later the letter above states that these issues have never been addressed or adjudicated in any court.

But the letter above states that these issues have never been addressed or adjudicated in any court.

By then the government was aware of the letters, of Johnston's activities, of his criminal tax problems. What happened was that the government knew of the letters, what Johnston had done, and yet still had done nothing. That was all.

Later the letter above states that these issues have never been addressed or adjudicated in any court.

But the letter above states that these issues have never been addressed or adjudicated in any court.

By then the government was aware of the letters, of Johnston's activities, of his criminal tax problems. What happened was that the government knew of the letters, what Johnston had done, and yet still had done nothing. That was all.

Later the letter above states that these issues have never been addressed or adjudicated in any court.

But the letter above states that these issues have never been addressed or adjudicated in any court.

By then the government was aware of the letters, of Johnston's activities, of his criminal tax problems. What happened was that the government knew of the letters, what Johnston had done, and yet still had done nothing. That was all.

Later the letter above states that these issues have never been addressed or adjudicated in any court.

But the letter above states that these issues have never been addressed or adjudicated in any court.

By then the government was aware of the letters, of Johnston's activities, of his criminal tax problems. What happened was that the government knew of the letters, what Johnston had done, and yet still had done nothing. That was all.

Later the letter above states that these issues have never been addressed or adjudicated in any court.

But the letter above states that these issues have never been addressed or adjudicated in any court.

By then the government was aware of the letters, of Johnston's activities, of his criminal tax problems. What happened was that the government knew of the letters, what Johnston had done, and yet still had done nothing. That was all.

Later the letter above states that these issues have never been addressed or adjudicated in any court.

But the letter above states that these issues have never been addressed or adjudicated in any court.

By then the government was aware of the letters, of Johnston's activities, of his criminal tax problems. What happened was that the government knew of the letters, what Johnston had done, and yet still had done nothing. That was all.

Later the letter above states that these issues have never been addressed or adjudicated in any court.

But the letter above states that these issues have never been addressed or adjudicated in any court.

By then the government was aware of the letters, of Johnston's activities, of his criminal tax problems. What happened was that the government knew of the letters, what Johnston had done, and yet still had done nothing. That was all.

Later the letter above states that these issues have never been addressed or adjudicated in any court.

But the letter above states that these issues have never been addressed or adjudicated in any court.

By then the government was aware of the letters, of Johnston's activities, of his criminal tax problems. What happened was that the government knew of the letters, what Johnston had done, and yet still had done nothing. That was all.

Later the letter above states that these issues have never been addressed or adjudicated in any court.

But the letter above states that these issues have never been addressed or adjudicated in any court.

By then the government was aware of the letters, of Johnston's activities, of his criminal tax problems. What happened was that the government knew of the letters, what Johnston had done, and yet still had done nothing. That was all.

Later the letter above states that these issues have never been addressed or adjudicated in any court.

But the letter above states that these issues have never been addressed or adjudicated in any court.

By then the government was aware of the letters, of Johnston's activities, of his criminal tax problems. What happened was that the government knew of the letters, what Johnston had done, and yet still had done nothing. That was all.

Later the letter above states that these issues have never been addressed or adjudicated in any court.

But the letter above states that these issues have never been addressed or adjudicated in any court.

By then the government was aware of the letters, of Johnston's activities, of his criminal tax problems. What happened was that the government knew of the letters, what Johnston had done, and yet still had done nothing. That was all.

Later the letter above states that these issues have never been addressed or adjudicated in any court.